THE FIRE AT THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

Further Particulars in Relation to the Condition of the sufferers from the effects of the late fire at the Academy of Music was somewhat improved yesterday, though some of them at times suffer intense pain. The pecuniary loss entailed upon the parents and friends of the sufferers will fall exceedingly heavy on them, as in the case of one of the yetima whose father had to absent himself from his daily occupation in order to render his distressed wife all the assistance he could in easing the sufferings of their distressed child. Although application bad been made at the Academy of Music for redress, the parties making application complain that they did not receive even common civility from those whom they were brought in contact with. Had the explosion resulted is a disastrous conflagration, causing the destruction of the Opers house, no matter through whose incompetency, carolesmess or stupidity, the public, no doubt, would have been appealed to, as has been the case in past instances of no very dissant date, to commiserate with the unfortunate managers, and the New York public ever ready to extend rollef when called upon, would have expressed their sympathy by their patronage of a benefit performance, the proceeds of which would be generously donated to the ruined manager. But in the case of the present sufferers, children of poor parents, the utmost endeavore have been made to conceal from the public the injuries they have austained through fear that the exposure might open the eyes of the community to the grees carelesmess of which the late fire and the injuries it inflicted on a number of individuals was the result.

Mr. Jacob Goeche, one of the attachée of the academy, is disfigured in a most shocking manner. His hart is completely burned off; his eyebrows, forehead and earn hadly acarred, and his hands and wrists fajured to such an extent that it is doubtful whether the nerves and sinew will ever again resume their functions. Previous to his being taken from the building

A private letter received here from Vera Cruz, dated March 10, reports that a great battle had taken place near Querciaro between the forces of Miramon and Mejia to the one side and those of Escobedo on the other. with about 10,000 troops, had left Queretaro in pursuit of the vanquished enemy.

It was rumored and generally believed in Vera Cruz that Trevino, with his corps, about 3,000 strong, had pronounced in favor of General J. G. Ortega.

The bulk of the liberal forces in Tampico had been ordered by Juarez to join Escobedo before he should attack Queretaro; but shortly after leaving Tampico for the interior they declared for the sovereignty and independence of the State of Tampulpas. This is considered a blow to Juarez's pretensions.

Little Care is entertained of the fall of Vera Cruz, as

Mr. Theodore L'Arronge, a distinguished German comedian, made his début at this theatre last evening before a very large audience. He appeared as Windmüller, in a very large audience. He appeared as windmuller, in the Father of the Debutante, by Hermann, and as Her-mann Lavy, in Paris in Pommern. The debutant was received with enthusiasm, and he possesses considerable talent is comedy. There is something of the genial English humor about him, and his obese, John Buil form and merry twinkle won over his audience at once. He was very well supported by the stock company.

The Olympic theatre was crowded last night on the occasion of Miss Caroline Richings' benefit. The large and fashionable audience present was not alone a just tribute to the ability of Miss Richings, but it was a grateful acknowledgment of her successful and carnest efforts to establish English opers in this city. Baife's threadbare but still popular opers, The Bohemian Girl, was performed in a manner that fully sustained the high reputation of abe Biohings troups.

THE WAR ON THE COUNTERFEITERS.

SPECIAL COMESPONDENCE OF THE HERALD.

Further Particulars of the Capture of the Western Counterfeiting Gang-Many of Them Wealthy Man. &c..

Rocumma, M. Y., April 4, 1867.

The first arrest made of the counterfeiters (an account of which was given in yesterday's Huald) was that of Henry W. Johnson, a canal groceryman, whom the officers pounced upon suddenly, finding him heavily charged with the obnoxious currency, most of it being counterfeit twenty-five cents and fifty cent fractionals. When seized Johnson was prevented from destroying it, and made stern resistance to being ironed and carried to jail. Johnson has long been suspected by the officers, but never by the has long been suspected by the officers, but never by the community at large. Marshal Keeney next arrested Several Piteson a long time resident of this city, but of his pipels are now in the State Prison. Having now committed the overt act." himself, the case against him is a good one.

It is thought that but for the death of the late Rans Rhubottom, at Troy, a few days since, who was one of the most accomplished "shovers" of the currency in the United States, and an acknowledged leader in this phase of crime, that the number of arrests would have been greater. It seems to be a custom with these criminals upon the death of one of their number to obliterate all traces of their operations for the time being until they can ascertain the position affairs were left in by the dead confederate, and learn whether any evidence has been loft likely to implicate any of the surviving. It was known here that Rhubottom had died within a few days past, and it is thought that the usual precautions were fully taken, in connection with other suspicions that seem to have come to the knowledge of parties upon whom the decitives had their eyes, but did not feel justified in "pulling."

Most of the parties are known not so much as maoufacturers of the article, as buyers, asilers and abovers of it. "The Empire Siste Manufactory of Counterfeit Money" is located at a point further east than this, and nearer the head of tide water.

As before stated, many members of this gang are quite wealthy, and are already availing themselves of their joint means to evade the law by the employment of the ablest counsel in the State.

The excitement here consequent upon the number and character of the arrests is certainly the greatest ever known in the West, and it continues to increase in consequence of intimations thrown out that further developments are likely to be made.

regard to the parties alleged to be implicated in heavy frauds upon the government, rumors of which are affect in the community. As in all such cases, speculation is rife as to the parties auspected, their standing in society and the autent to which the supposed depredations have been carried on. The reticence of the efficient of the government raiber tends to increase than diminish the excitement and uncertainty in all such matters, and very seldom subserves the interests of justice. These officials, however, seem to delight in drawing the long bow by inuendo, hinting that the frauds spoken of exceed anything that has yet come to light, and that the coming developments will astonish the public and throw into the shade all the swinding operations of the last four years. How for these official hints may prove true, or how far the officials are justified in the course they are adopting in this instance, remains to be seen.
